Only 35 out of 100 Pianos Left Jenkins Piano Co.'s Monster Removal Sale

has far exceeded our most sanguine expectations. When our monster removal sale started ten days ago we had 100 pianos in stock. Only 35 remain. If they continue to go as they have been, we will not have one piano left to move from the old to our new store October 1st.

It is the quality of the pianos, the greatest reduction in prices, and the most favorable terms ever offered in El Paso that is selling them. It is a well known fact when JENKINS advertises large discounts on standard pianos they have the pianos in stock as advertised, and they sell them at the advertised prices.

The 35 pianos we still have in stock are most of them of the very best makes. They are the regular piano, the player-piano, and the electric piano.

If there should be any one in doubt as to the genuineness of our sale, we will suggest that such persons go to all the other piano houses in the city, post yourselves as to quality and prices, then come to our store, examine our pianos, get our monster removal and special sale prices. This will remove all doubt on those lines. To those who wish to avail themselves of the greatest reduction ever offered in pianos had better come in and make their selection today. Tomorrow may be too late to secure the piano you want before it goes to another. Remember our Removal Sale and special discount does not apply to pianos not on our floor, we will not under any circumstances duplicate or order pianos to be sold at our monster removal sale prices.

Our stock this morning consists of the following standard makes: IVERS & POND, WEGMAN, FRENCH & SONS, STEINWAY, KNABE, CHASE, STEGER, HADDORFF, CLARENDON, LACONDA, H. P. NELSON, J. & C. FISHER, EVERETT, GERHARD, CABLE-NELSON, ROYAL, KRELL, PEERLESS, COINOLA.

The above includes our new and slightly used. Every piano is accompanied with our iron-clad guarantee "PIANOS MUST BE AS REPRESENTED OR ALL YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED" and pianos taken up. Remember the place—branch were transferred here, into this valley of the pass. As the sun sank over yonder Orocopia hills, and shot his last violet rays into the amphitheatre blue of the vale, it was like a diamond seen through a cobweb of wind; the very air, the gentle breeze, the uplifting mountains, the murmuring river, sang the song of Democracy to our hero's heart, and like the Indian of old whose view was ravished by the sight and tales of Old Alabama, he said: "Here is rest, and sank his roots deep into our virgin soil, and his tattered top has since towered in our town."

"The residue of my story is but a recapitulation of the advancement of our community. From congress to recall corn; from hotel politics to alfalfa and hog ranches in the valley; to repeat this history would be the unfolding of a biography not written by Theodore Roosevelt."

"You all know full well the history of my subject; how half of the time we had been always right, and I thank God that it was the last half—before the primaries—when he was right. "We come to the summer of 1912. The campaign was at its hottest; couriers dashed here and there; each hilltop was crowned with a battery and the valleys glistened with the small fry—arms, I mean. Pardon a little personal reference, but back in 1861, at the close of a spring day, my father, then a man of my present age, arrived at his home and was greeted by my mother and four little boys; he reported to her that, on the morrow, Col. Cameron's regiment would leave Kuskusko for the front. My mother, in her great grief and anxiety, begged him not to go so far away, but he replied that he should join the home guard. He replied to this that the home guard was at right angles to the front and aged men, but that, for him, Terrell Jackson—man—when the neighbors inquired tomorrow, he should report to them that "those Mississippians have gone to Washington."

Resuming, while we of the light infantry were frantically talking free wool to the cottonseed and free leather to the sheepman, there was one who shouldered his telescope and carried about the fringes of the Lakotas and talked of Bryan. He went into the bright light of the Lakotas and talked of Bryan; he went into vice ridden Chicago, held the monster by the head and preached the gospel of Bryan. The forces met and the rattle of the grape shot rang on the dome of the Union. "We do not crowd; we have eaten so much flesh of that knobby bird that the name nauseates us; the victim belongs to the spoilsman; we are here to give a glad hand and a hearty cheer to our fellow townsman. "Little ones should be seen but not heard is no more. I propose a toast to the best gamblers little fellow in the world—Zach Lamar Cobb."

Judge Goggin Talks.
Judge Goggin reviewed the Houston convention and the incidents which led up to it in his address. He followed the introductory talk of Judge Jackson. In introducing Judge Goggin, Judge Jackson said that Washington had been watching Judge Goggin as material for a future federal judgeship in this district. After reviewing the Houston convention at length in a most interesting manner, Judge Goggin, in referring to the results of this victory, said: "To one man is due the credit of bringing about this most interesting manner. Judge Goggin, in referring to the results of this victory, said: "To one man is due the credit of bringing about this most interesting manner. Judge Goggin, in referring to the results of this victory, said: "To one man is due the credit of bringing about this most interesting manner."

Appointment Approved.
"I take a particular pride with Mr. Cobb and the others in overthrowing a rule which has so long dominated this district. In this connection, taking El Paso out of the list of pocket boroughs, I believe the president has made a good appointment here as he has in hundreds of other Democratic who will show that Democratic officeholders are more than ordinary capable administrators of the government. In closing, I would urge that in choosing subordinates that none but capable men be chosen. All things being equal, those who fought the battles for our country have the right to be considered, but they must be men of character and ability. As to our great chief—I believe that you all believe that he is a great chief."

War's Tribute to Wilson.
W. K. Ware, after he had given his monolog of his early experiences, grew serious and said: "Most of the men at this table are men who helped me last spring. I am glad that I had something to do with the fight to give freedom to this country politically. I had as much to do with it as I could. In speaking of our president, some of the people on the border feel more acutely the situation in Mexico than those in the interior. They feel that the president's actions should be more aggressive. They overlook the fact that the president is not the president of this imperial commonwealth. It is a far cry from the cranberry grower of the Maine coast to the chili raiser of Brownsville; from the sands of Florida to the Puget Sound; but he is president of all the people. Let us hope that our president will follow the course he has taken and keep the peace as long as possible. They call him a schoolmaster, but I confidently believe that if war comes, we will see him there in the thickest of the fight and I believe that his white plume will be seen as plain as was that of Henry of Navarre. I don't believe that the last half century has brought to the surface his equal, and I believe that the world has there been a man who understands the needs and problems of the world as does the president."

Those Present.
Those present at the dinner were: Judge J. M. Goggin, Judge Dan M. Jackson, W. B. Ware, Tom Lea, Charles R. Russell, George E. Wallace, Victor C. Moore, Zach L. Cobb, George McQuaid, of Galveston; J. P. Kilbourn, Frank Del Buono, H. M. Johnston, R. M. Reed, F. T. Tufan, J. J. Kautsky, J. C. Moore, C. W. Marshall, J. R. Donahue, R. H. Linehart, G. A. Martin, Norman Walker and M. W. Stanton.

MISSISSIPPI MEN FIGHT; TWO KILLED

Aberdeen, Miss., Sept. 17.—In a fight in which one used an ax and the other a revolver, Dr. H. F. Broyles, a Mississippi state senator, and E. F. Hendricks, of Selmer, Tenn., a timberman, killed each other near Greenwood Springs. According to reports to officials, Broyles started to repair a dam when Hendricks interfered. As Hendricks fired at Broyles with a revolver, Broyles struck him in the head with an ax and became unconscious. Both a bullet struck his heart and Hendricks with his head split open. The men are said to have been unfriendly since a timber deal about a year ago.

RECOVERED FROM SEVERE LUNG TROUBLE

Plenty of fresh air and good food are necessary to persons suffering from lung trouble, but something more is needed to bring about full health. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine for throat and lung troubles, and so many reports have been received showing that it brought about good results in declared hopeless cases which were declared hopeless, that all sufferers who are not benefiting otherwise should at least investigate what it has done for others. Investigate this cure.

Madison Lake, Minn. "Gentlemen: In December, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs which confined me several weeks, each time to my bed. My doctor advised me to go West."

"In November I started for Denver, Colo. After my arrival I met Michael Brody, who, upon learning of my condition, urged me to take Eckman's Alternative. In about two months I began to feel better. I kept on taking the medicine, and an improvement in my weight was noted. In March, 1910, I returned home. I think I am entirely well, have a good appetite and sleep well. When I left Denver my weight was 135 pounds. I now weigh 165, my normal weight. I thank God and your Alternative for my health."

(Affidavit) PAUL L. FARNACHT. (Above abbreviated; more on request.) Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stomach Colds and in up-building the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence. Advertisement.
